

REBEL FUTURE

DESIGN PHASE I

REBELS

FACTION OVERVIEW

“THE GOOD GUYS”

Humanist, Masculinist, Conservative, Highly Spiritual, Traditional

Human > Machine

REBELS is a broad generic term for what is really multiple groups that have banded together to achieve their own specific goals.

The Federation of Allied Clusters and Systems is seen as the primary rebel threat. They however, see themselves as a self governing democracy. The various groups and factions work together, for the most part, but each tends to hold their specific ideologies and objectives above those of any larger unified body.

Rebels devote themselves to the continued perpetuation of mankind, and denounce the machine as replacement.

DESIGN CUES

- Technology is used / worn but not implanted or integrated unless for lifesaving or medical reasons
- Uniforms, armor, weapons and symbols vary by group (no rules)
- Magic and accent color is purple come in all shapes, sizes and uniforms. Some rebel groups are better equipped and have more resources than others...

IMPERIALS

“THE BAD GUYS”

Publicly: Human w/o Machine

Secretly: Machine > Human

IMPERIALS maintain a romantic, austerity they sell to the masses as if they are there to care for and support of their citizens. The truth is far more sinister. The Imperials are driven to conquer the universe. They use their outward polish and practiced aura of mysticism to draw systems to them. They are master manipulators, promising a better life while consolidating power, wealth and influence behind the scenes. Imperials have access sort of corrupt magic but as often use tricks and technology to sell the appearance of the mystical.

DESIGN CUES

- Inspiration from the Roman Catholic Church.
- Symbols, Idols, Garments - calculated to inspire awe and devotion
- A church like hierarchy from foot soldiers (knights) to Pope
- Technology / Cybernetics heavily integrated but hidden or minimized
- Magic and accent color is Yellow/Gold

IMPERIALS

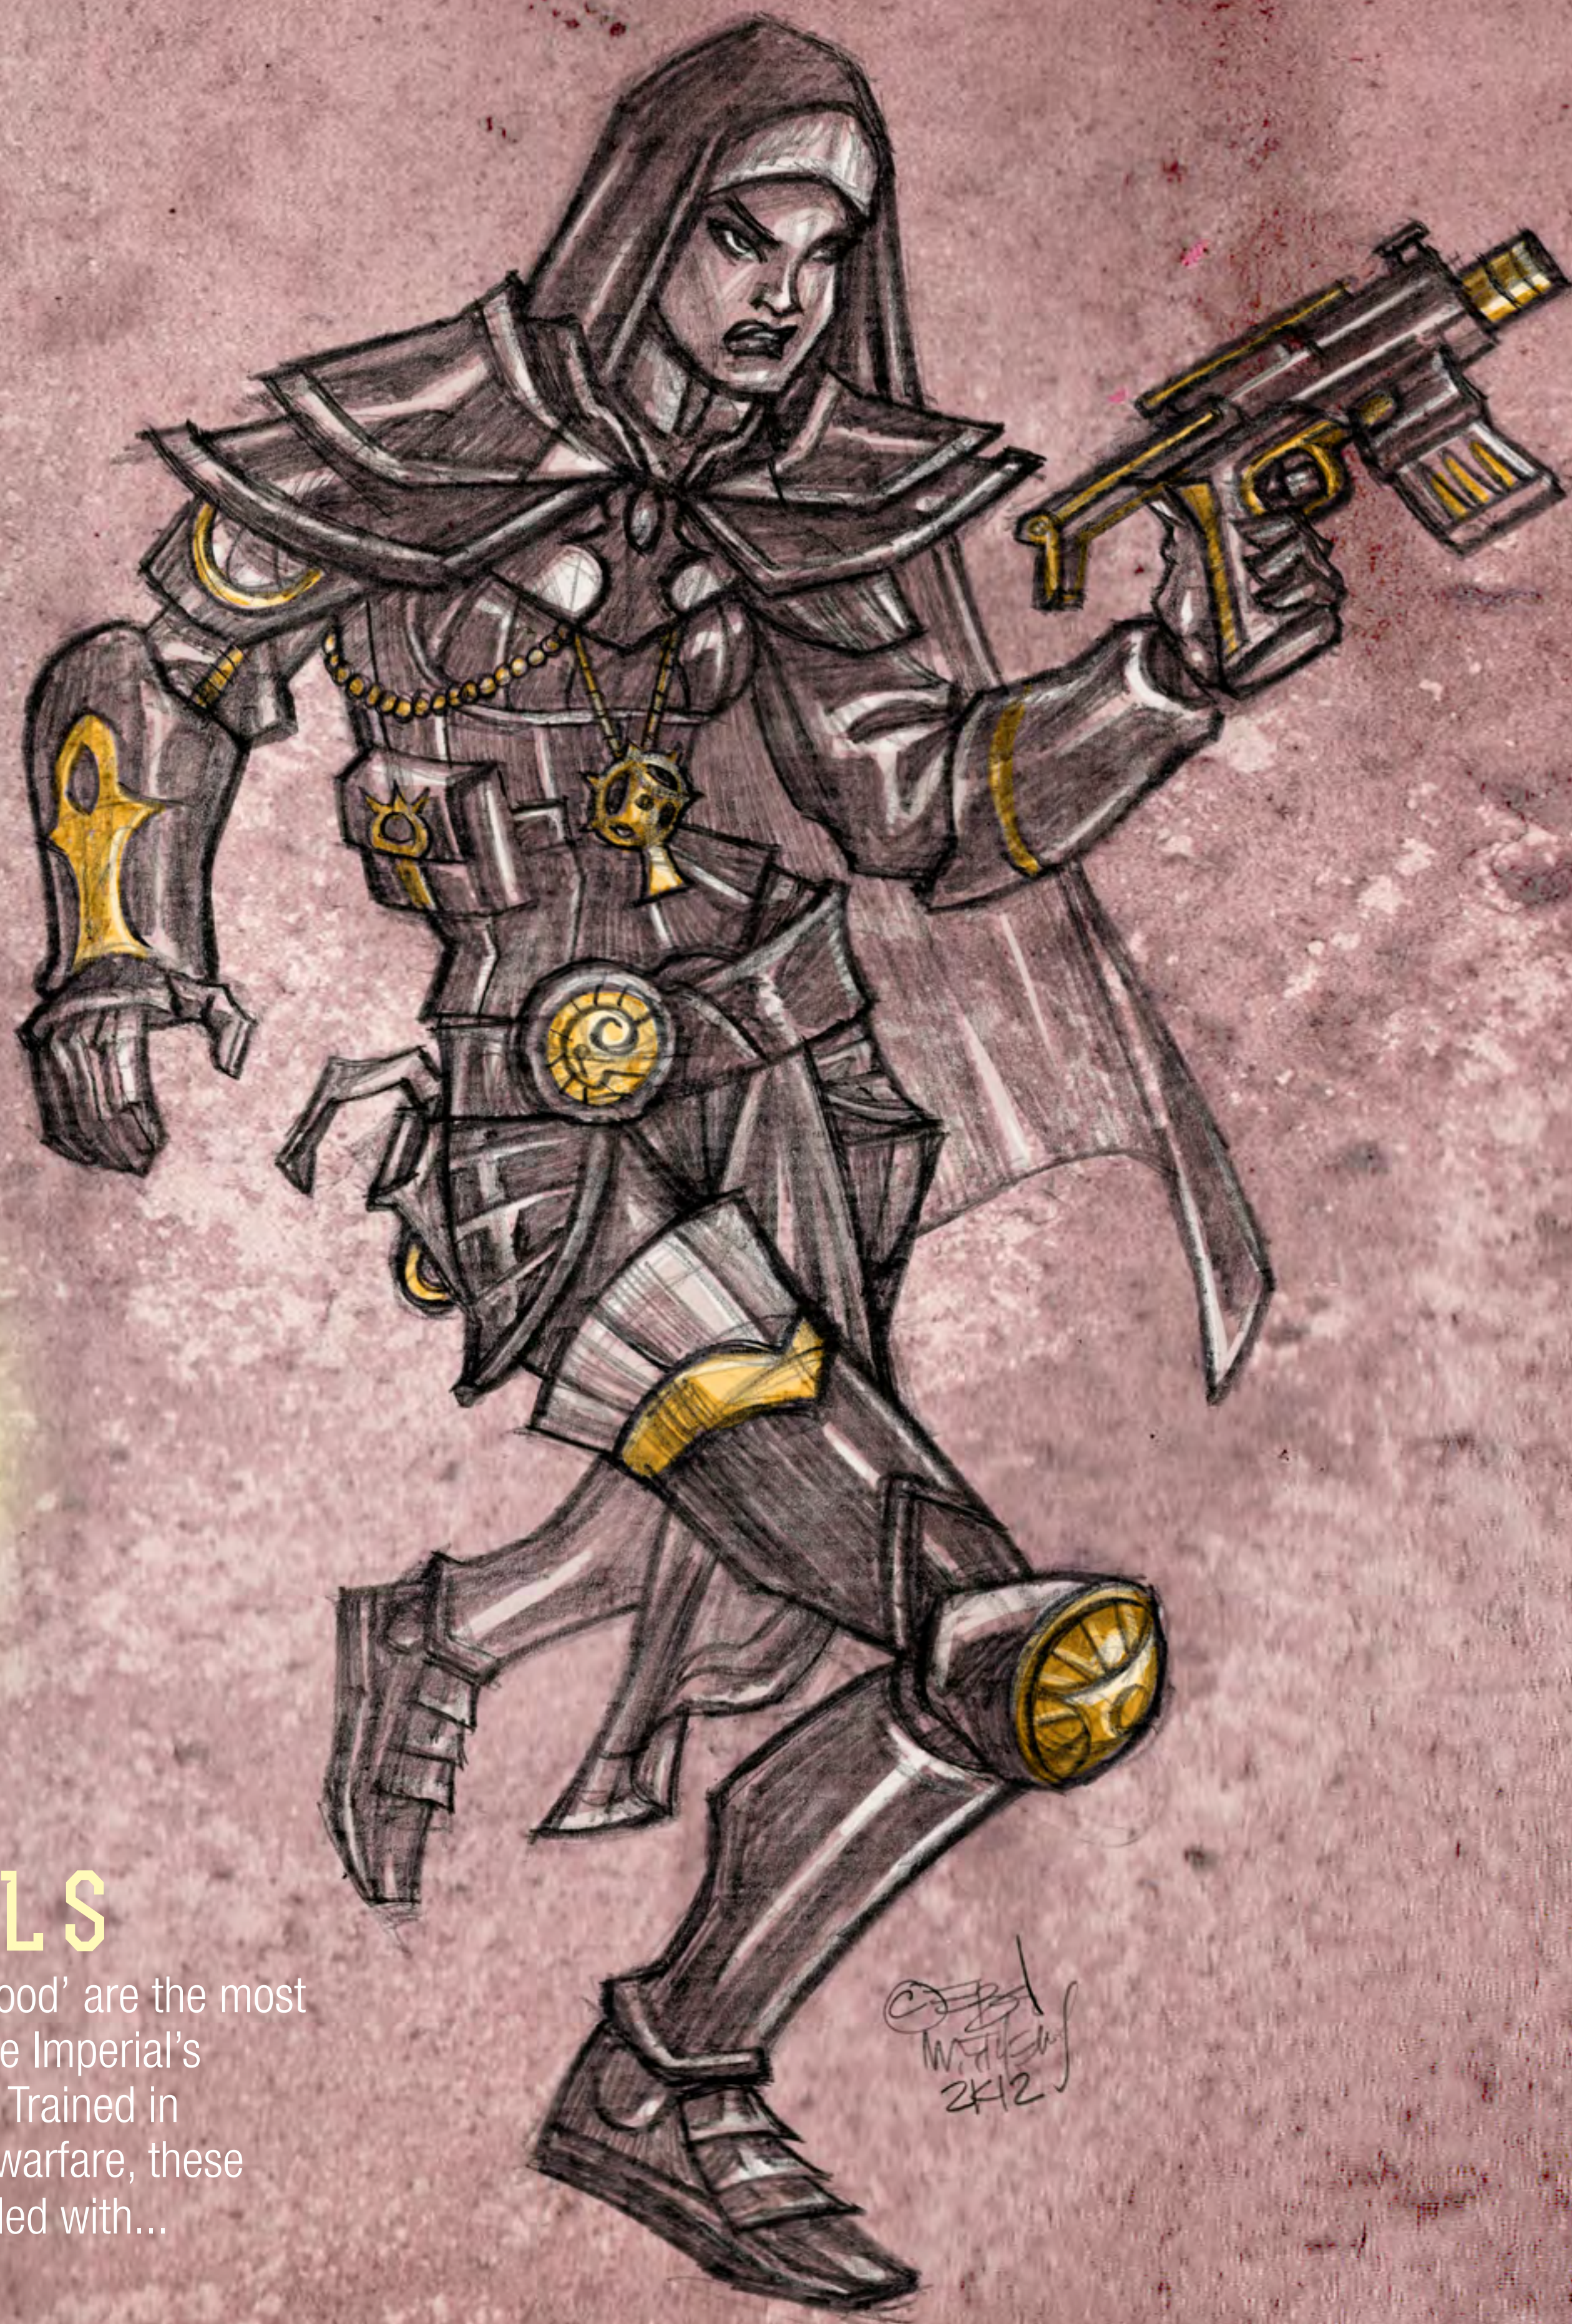

Always adorned with the symbols and decorations of their rank within the Imperial "faith" as well as their military position in the larger organization. The main icon of the sheep/ram indicates both a willingness to follow (sheep) and to break through obstacles (ram)...

IMPERIALS

The second prominent symbol is the Ankross worn proudly on the helmet of the Imperial's elite soldier - the Knight...

PIRATES

“THE SCOUNDRELS”

Cyborg, Feminist, Anti-essentialist, Progressive, Godless, Without Tradition

Human = Machine

PIRATES have banded together to win fame, fortune and enjoy the hell out of life. There are many groups who enjoy a wide range of size and success. Leaders come and go, tending to take dynasty's with them. Prank Sumatra has been the “Pirate King” for a decade, an eternity by Pirate standards and a legend among them all. Most Pirates end up dead, in Imperial prison or head-hunted and employed by Ro8ocorp. The smart ones hide away some loot and cash out early, retiring to a cushy planet as far from their former colleagues as possible.

DESIGN CUES

- Asymmetrical Designs for uniforms, gear and other elements
- Technology and Cybernetics embraced and integrated into their uniforms, bodies and personalities
- Flashy, showy appearances - Punk, Cyber-Punk, Sexy
- Magic and accent color is Red/Orange

R080CORP

FACTION OVERVIEW

“THE CORPORATE MACHINE”

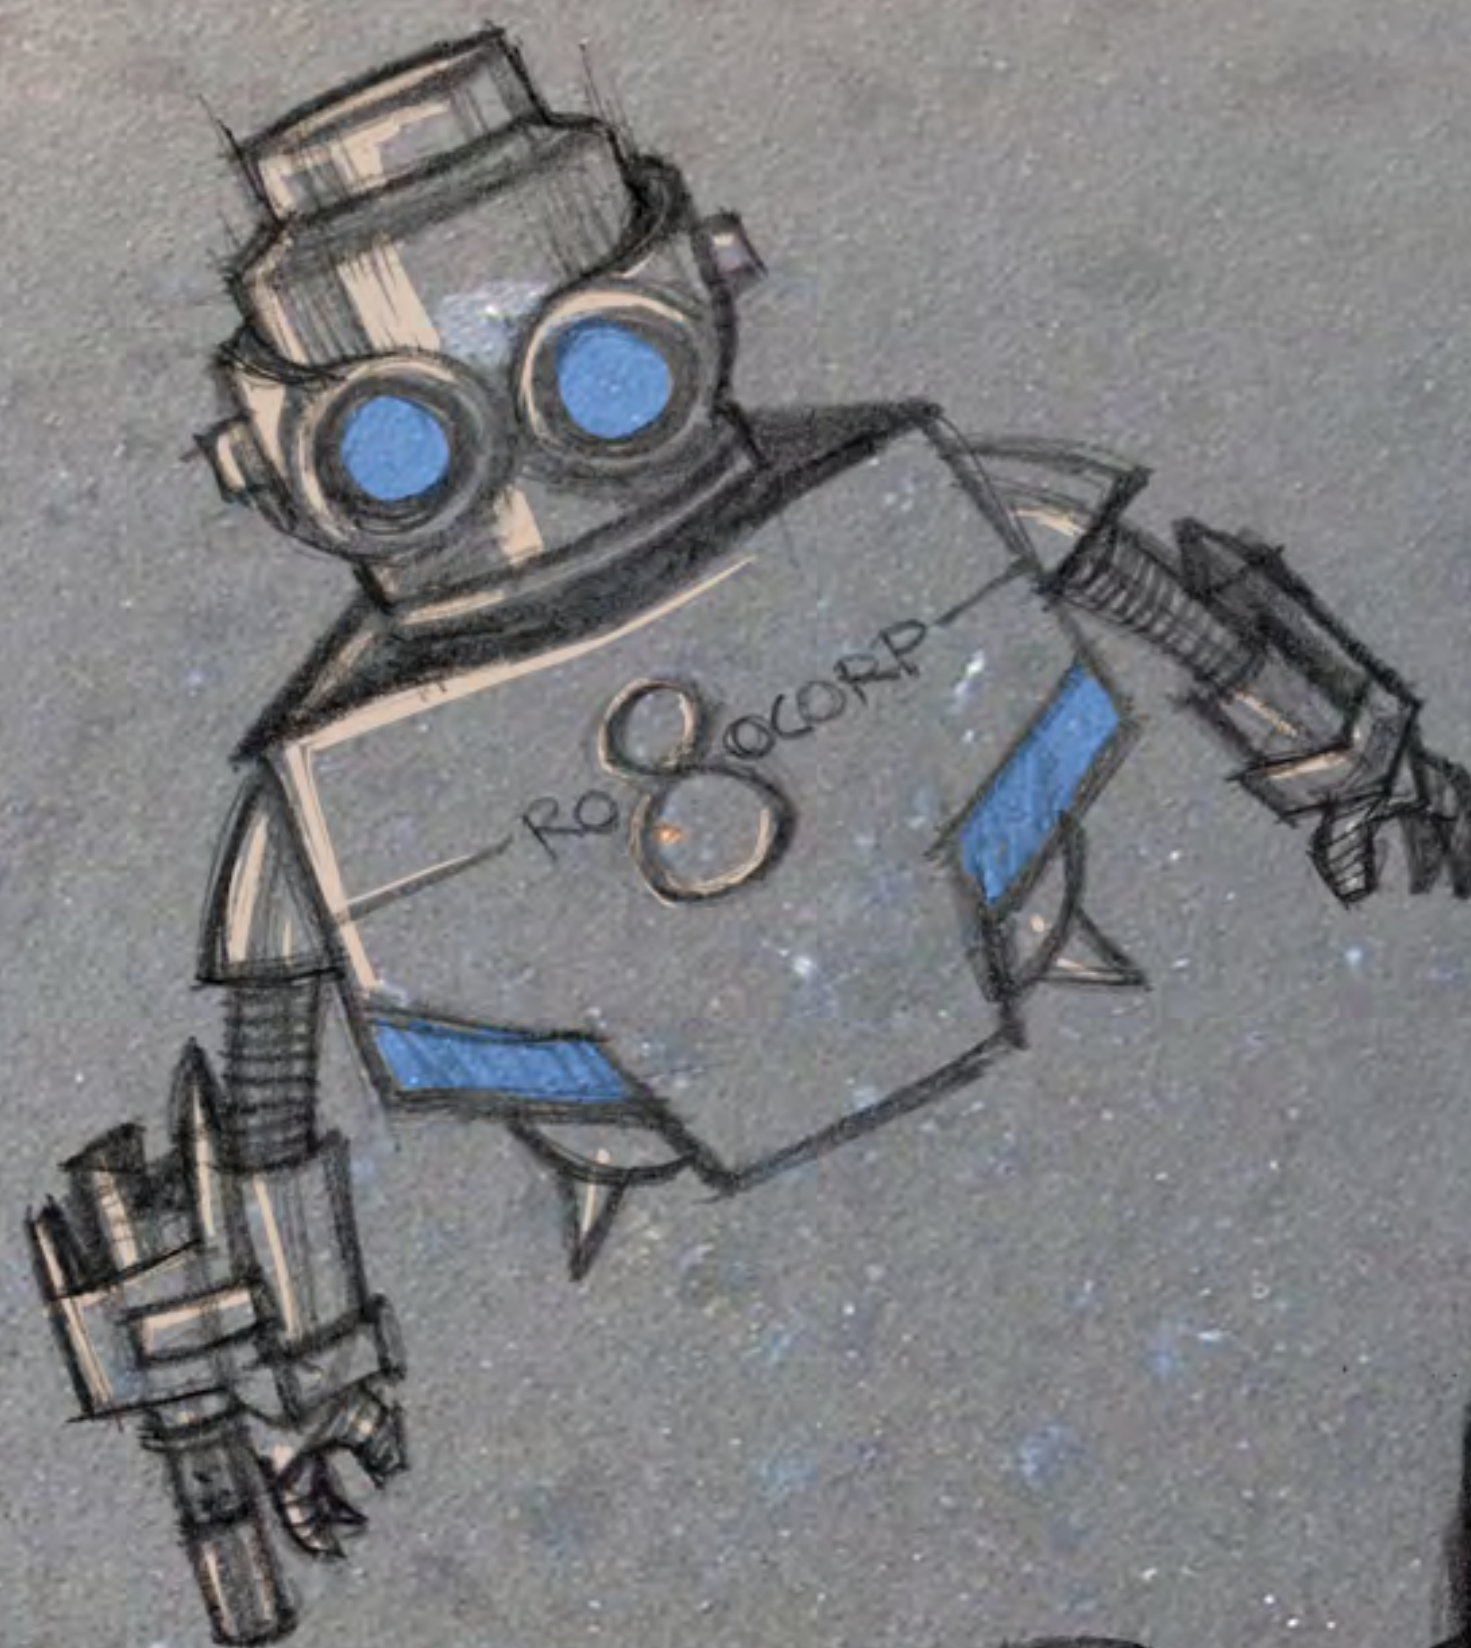

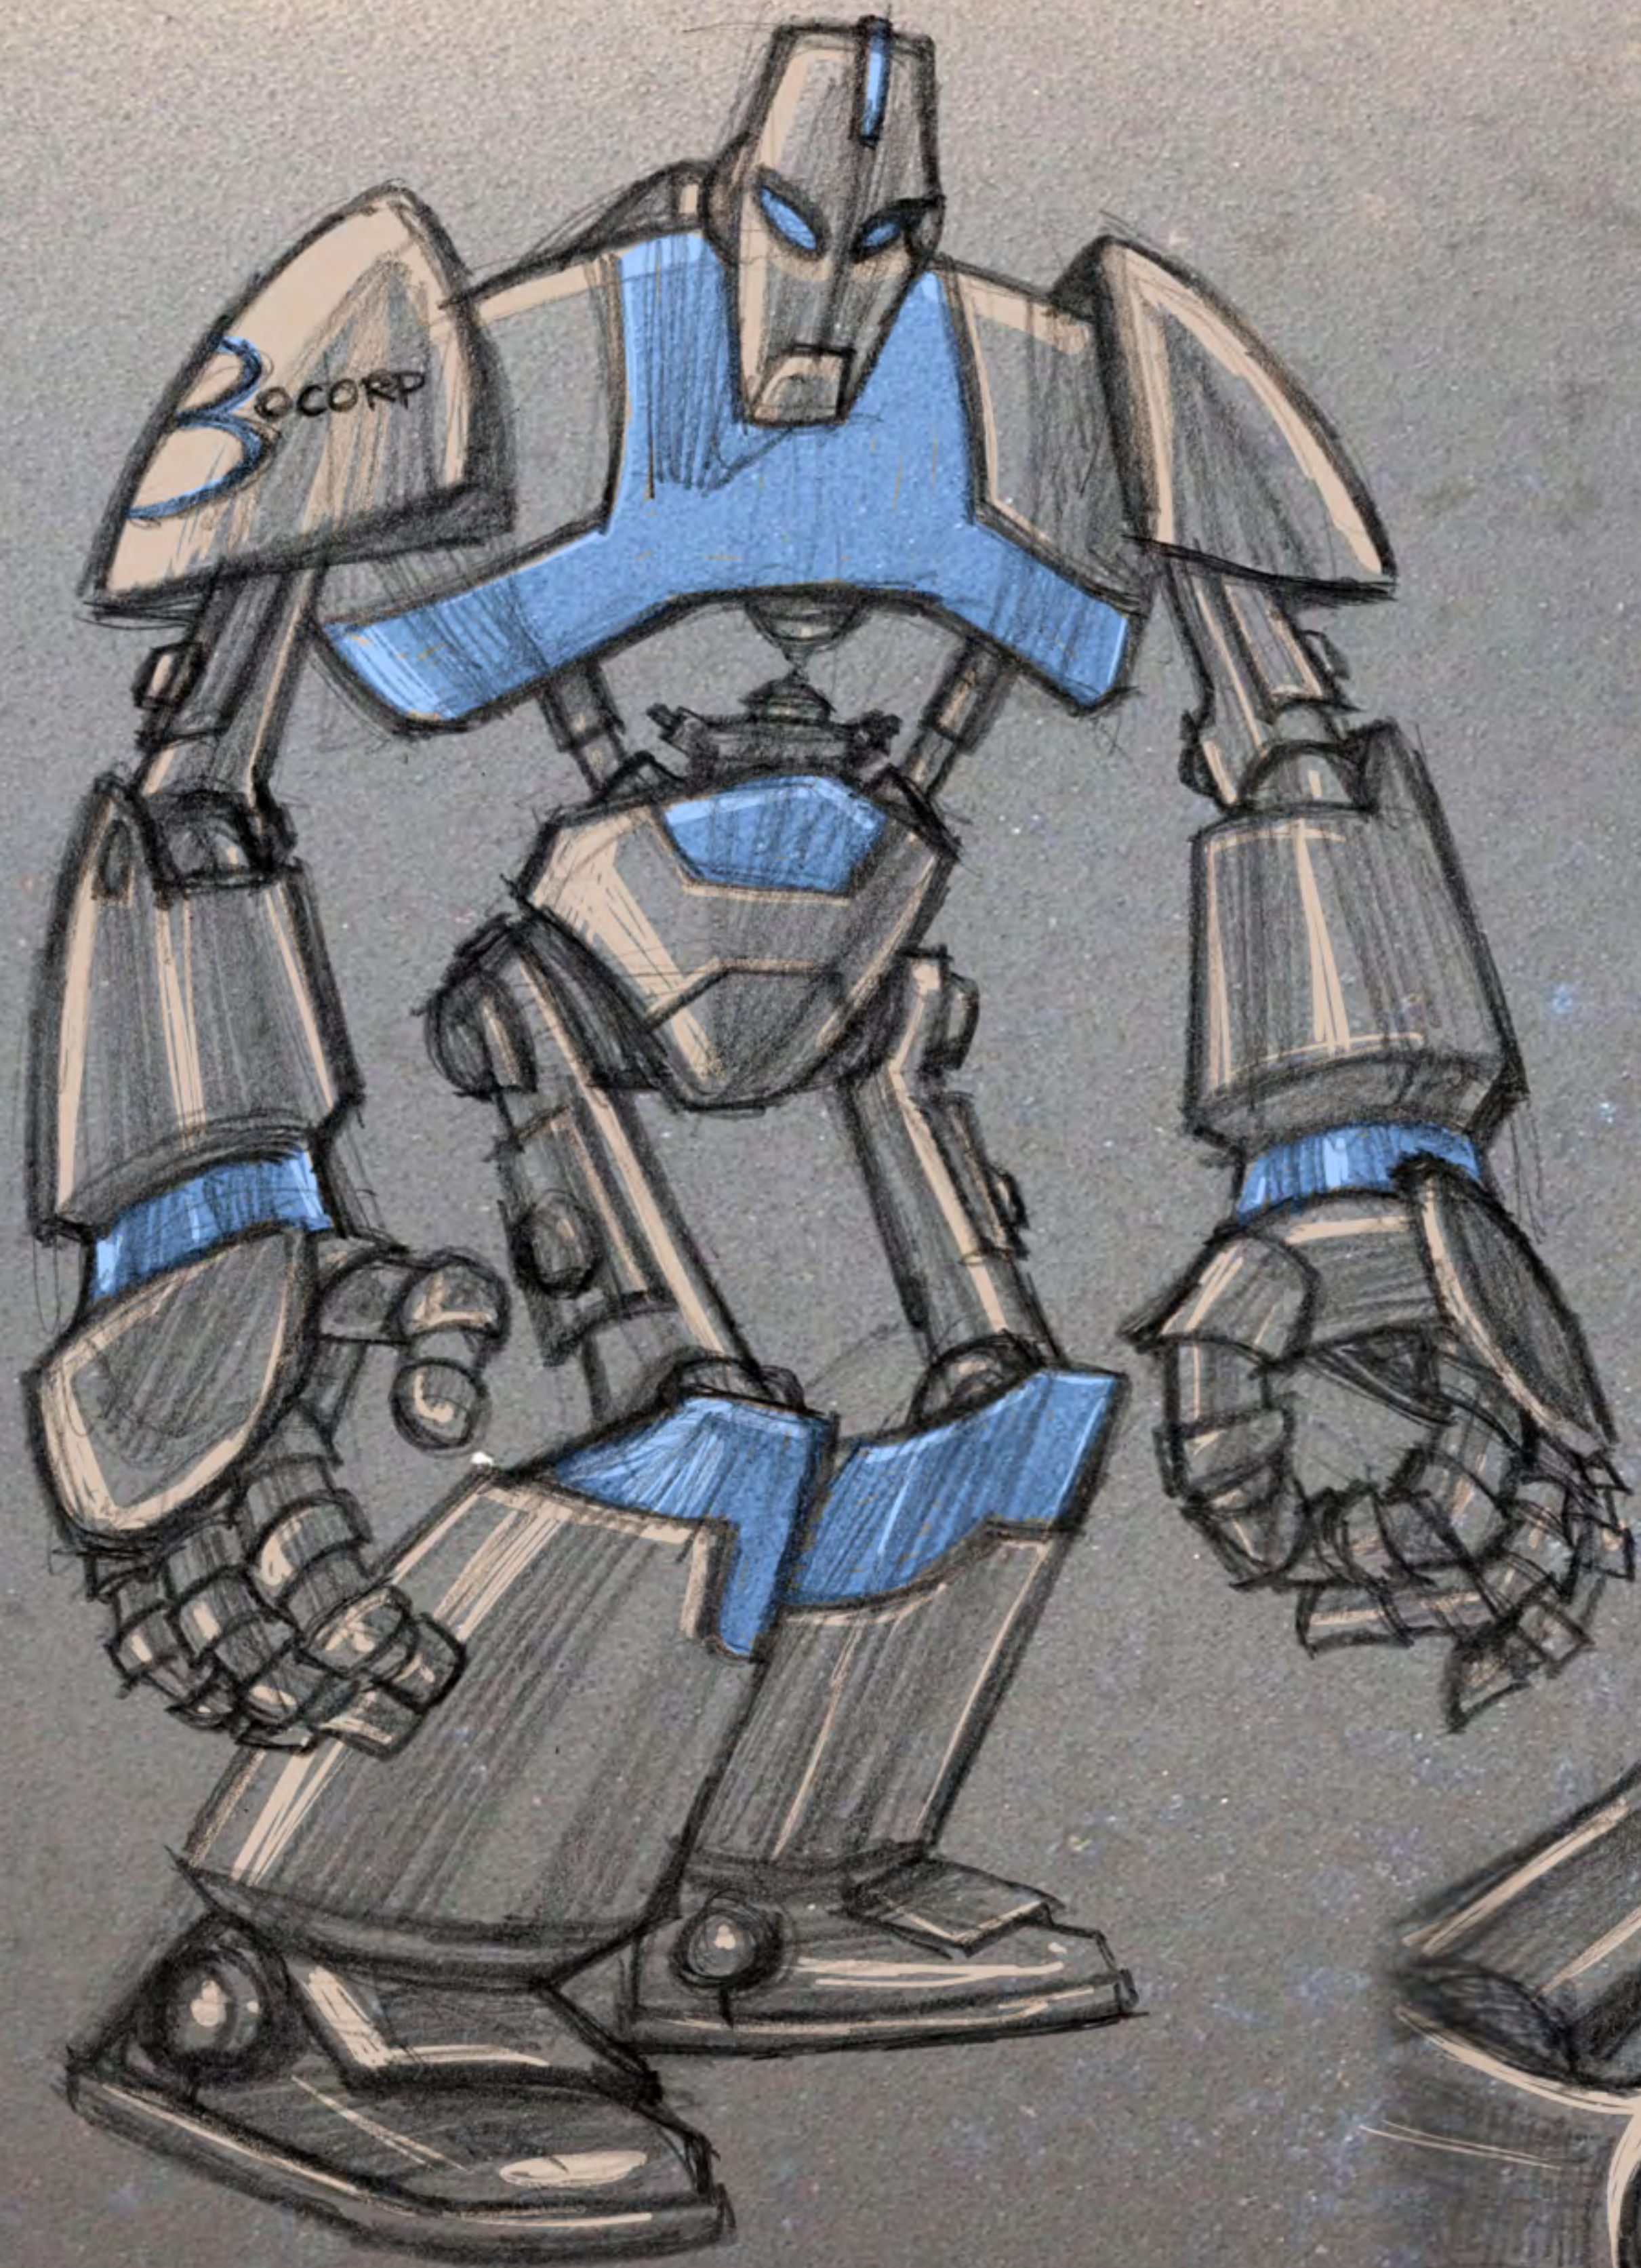

Sexless, Soulless, Capitalist, Collectivist, Omnipresence, Cancerous

Machine > Human

RO8OCORP was founded long ago by Leon Scry, the most ruthless and successful businessman in the history of the galaxy. The mega-corporation is now under the leadership of the twin Scry children. Dayna and Fenris were trained in all forms of combat by their late father and are equally at home squashing a rebellion as engineering a clever boardroom takeover. Some consider Ro8ocorp to be the true power in the universe as it's expansion seems rampant and without end.

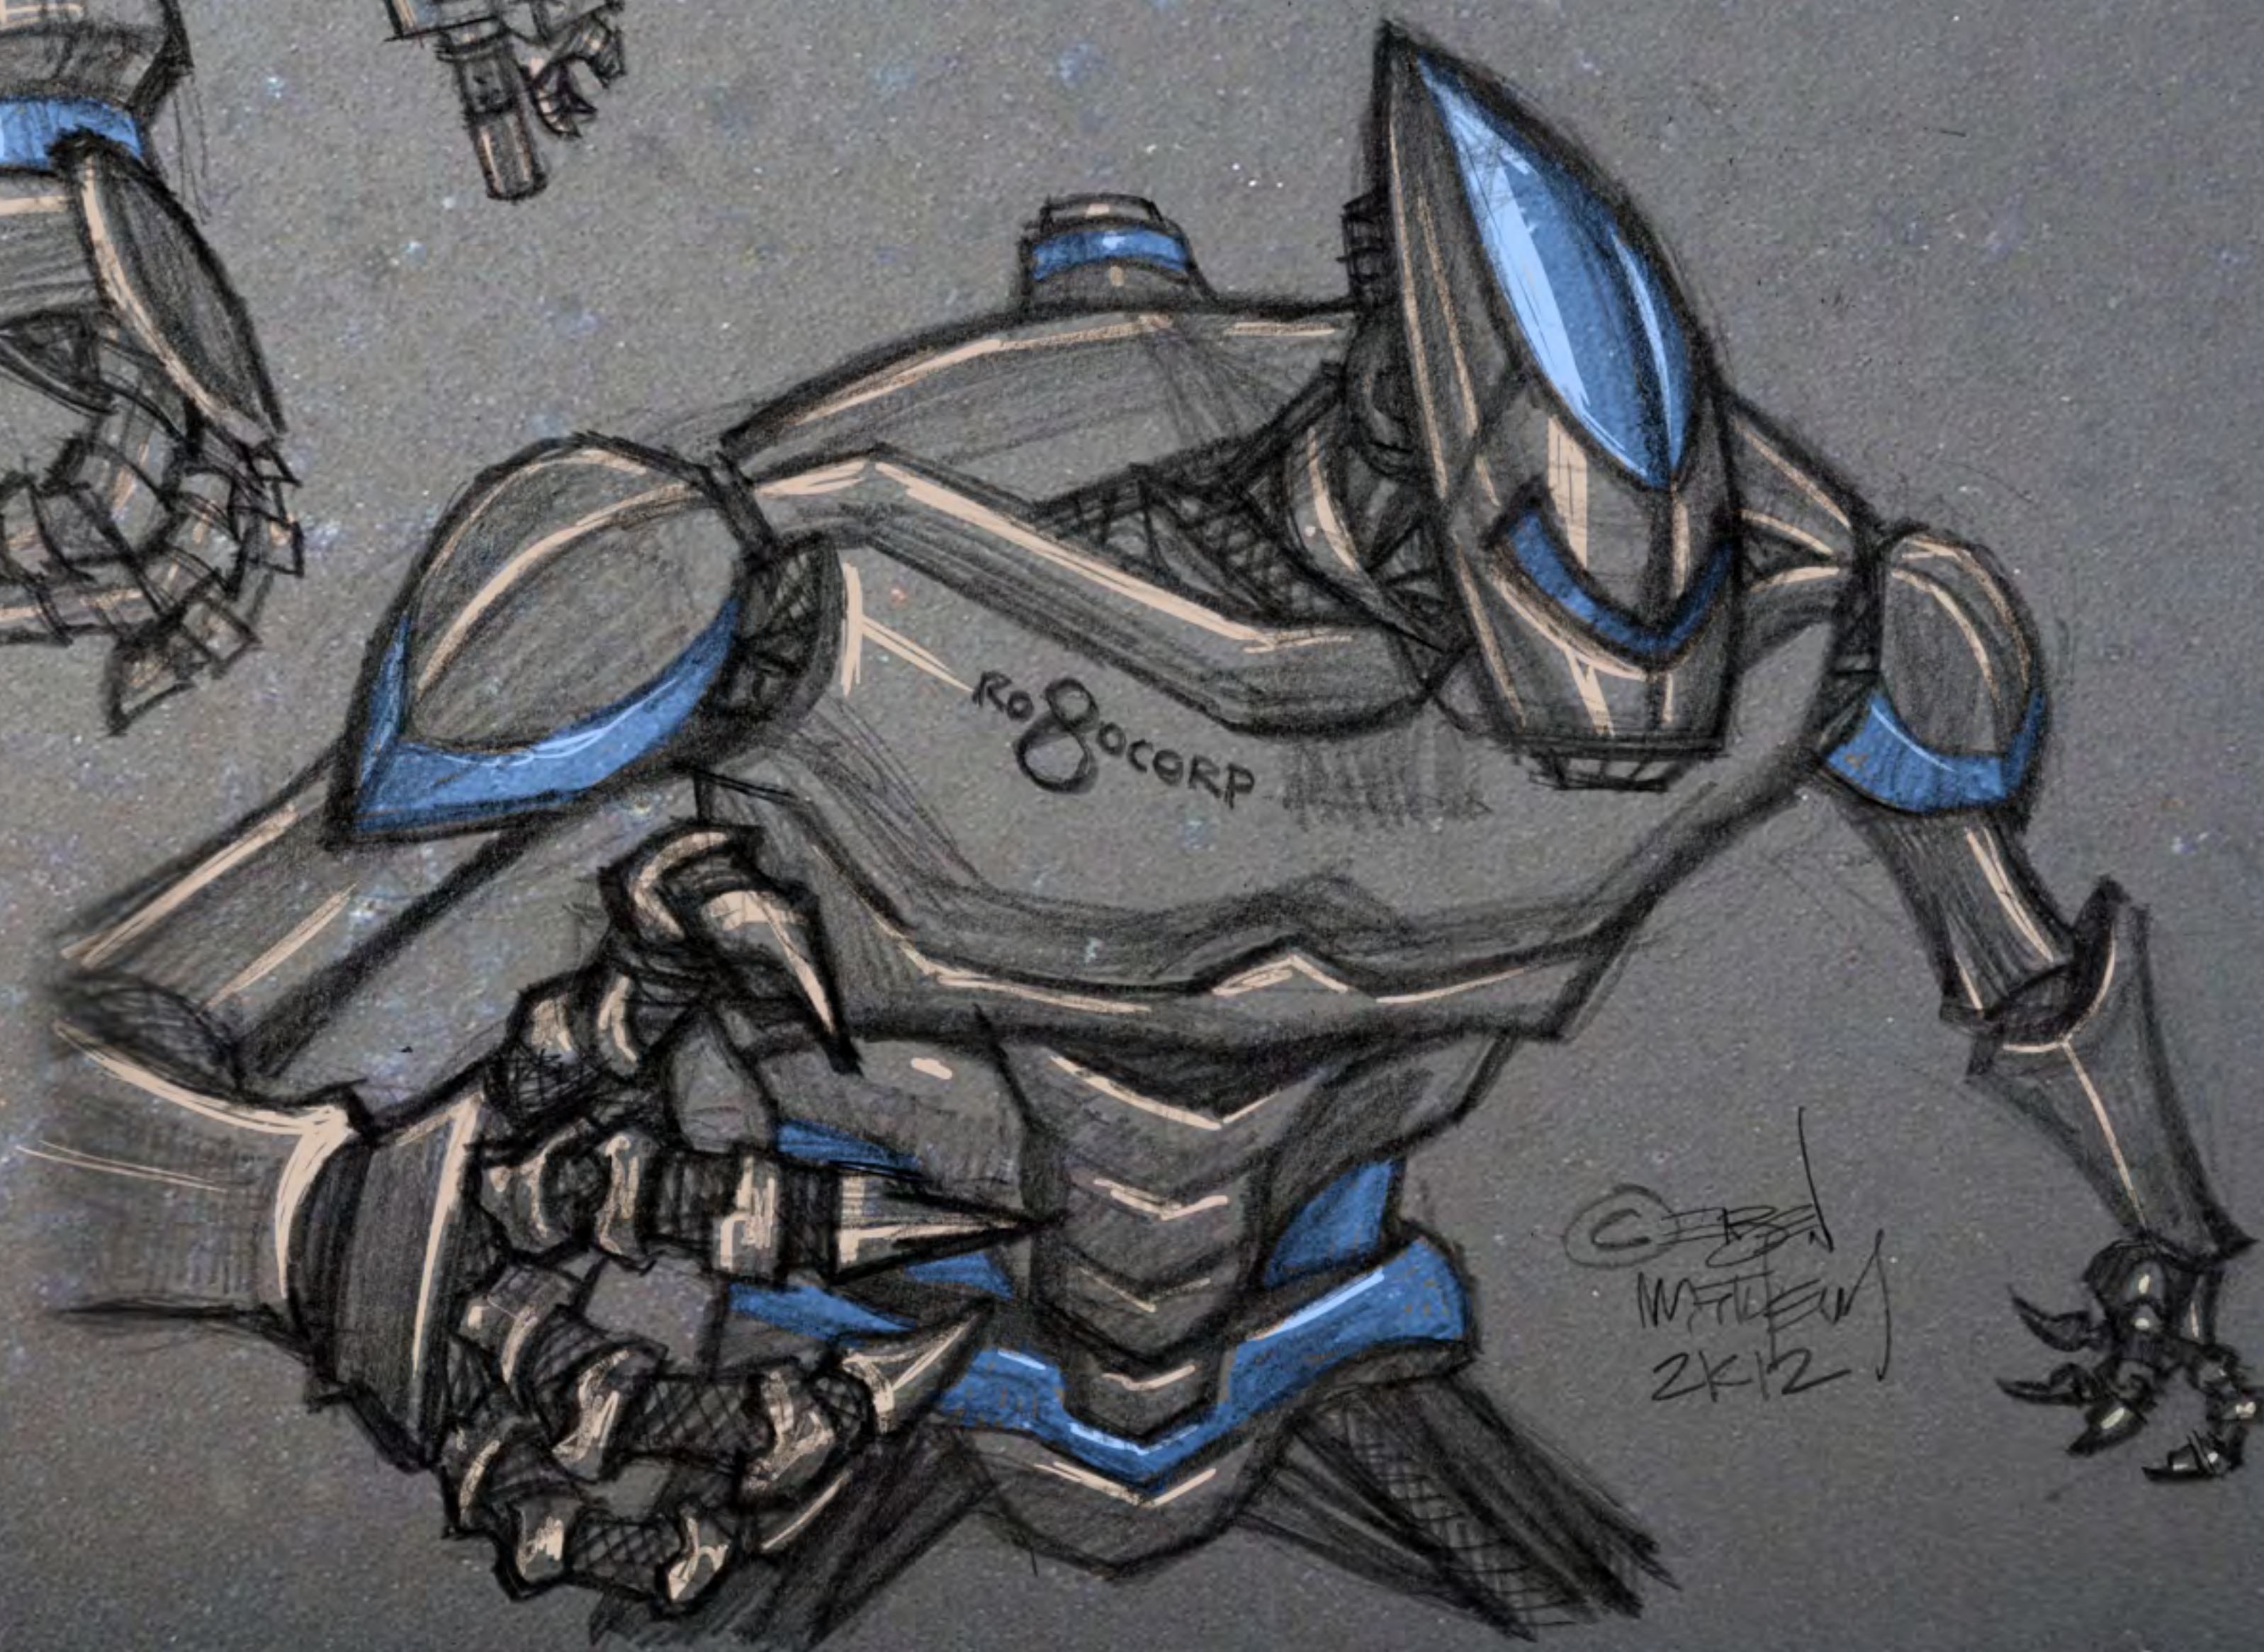

DESIGN CUES

- Robots in all shapes and sizes, for all occasions
- Technology and Cybernetics integrated into and replacements for human frailties
- Tech for every purpose - from sleek and sophisticated war machines to menial construction bots to humanoid replicants
- Energy manipulation (instead of magic) and accent color is Blue

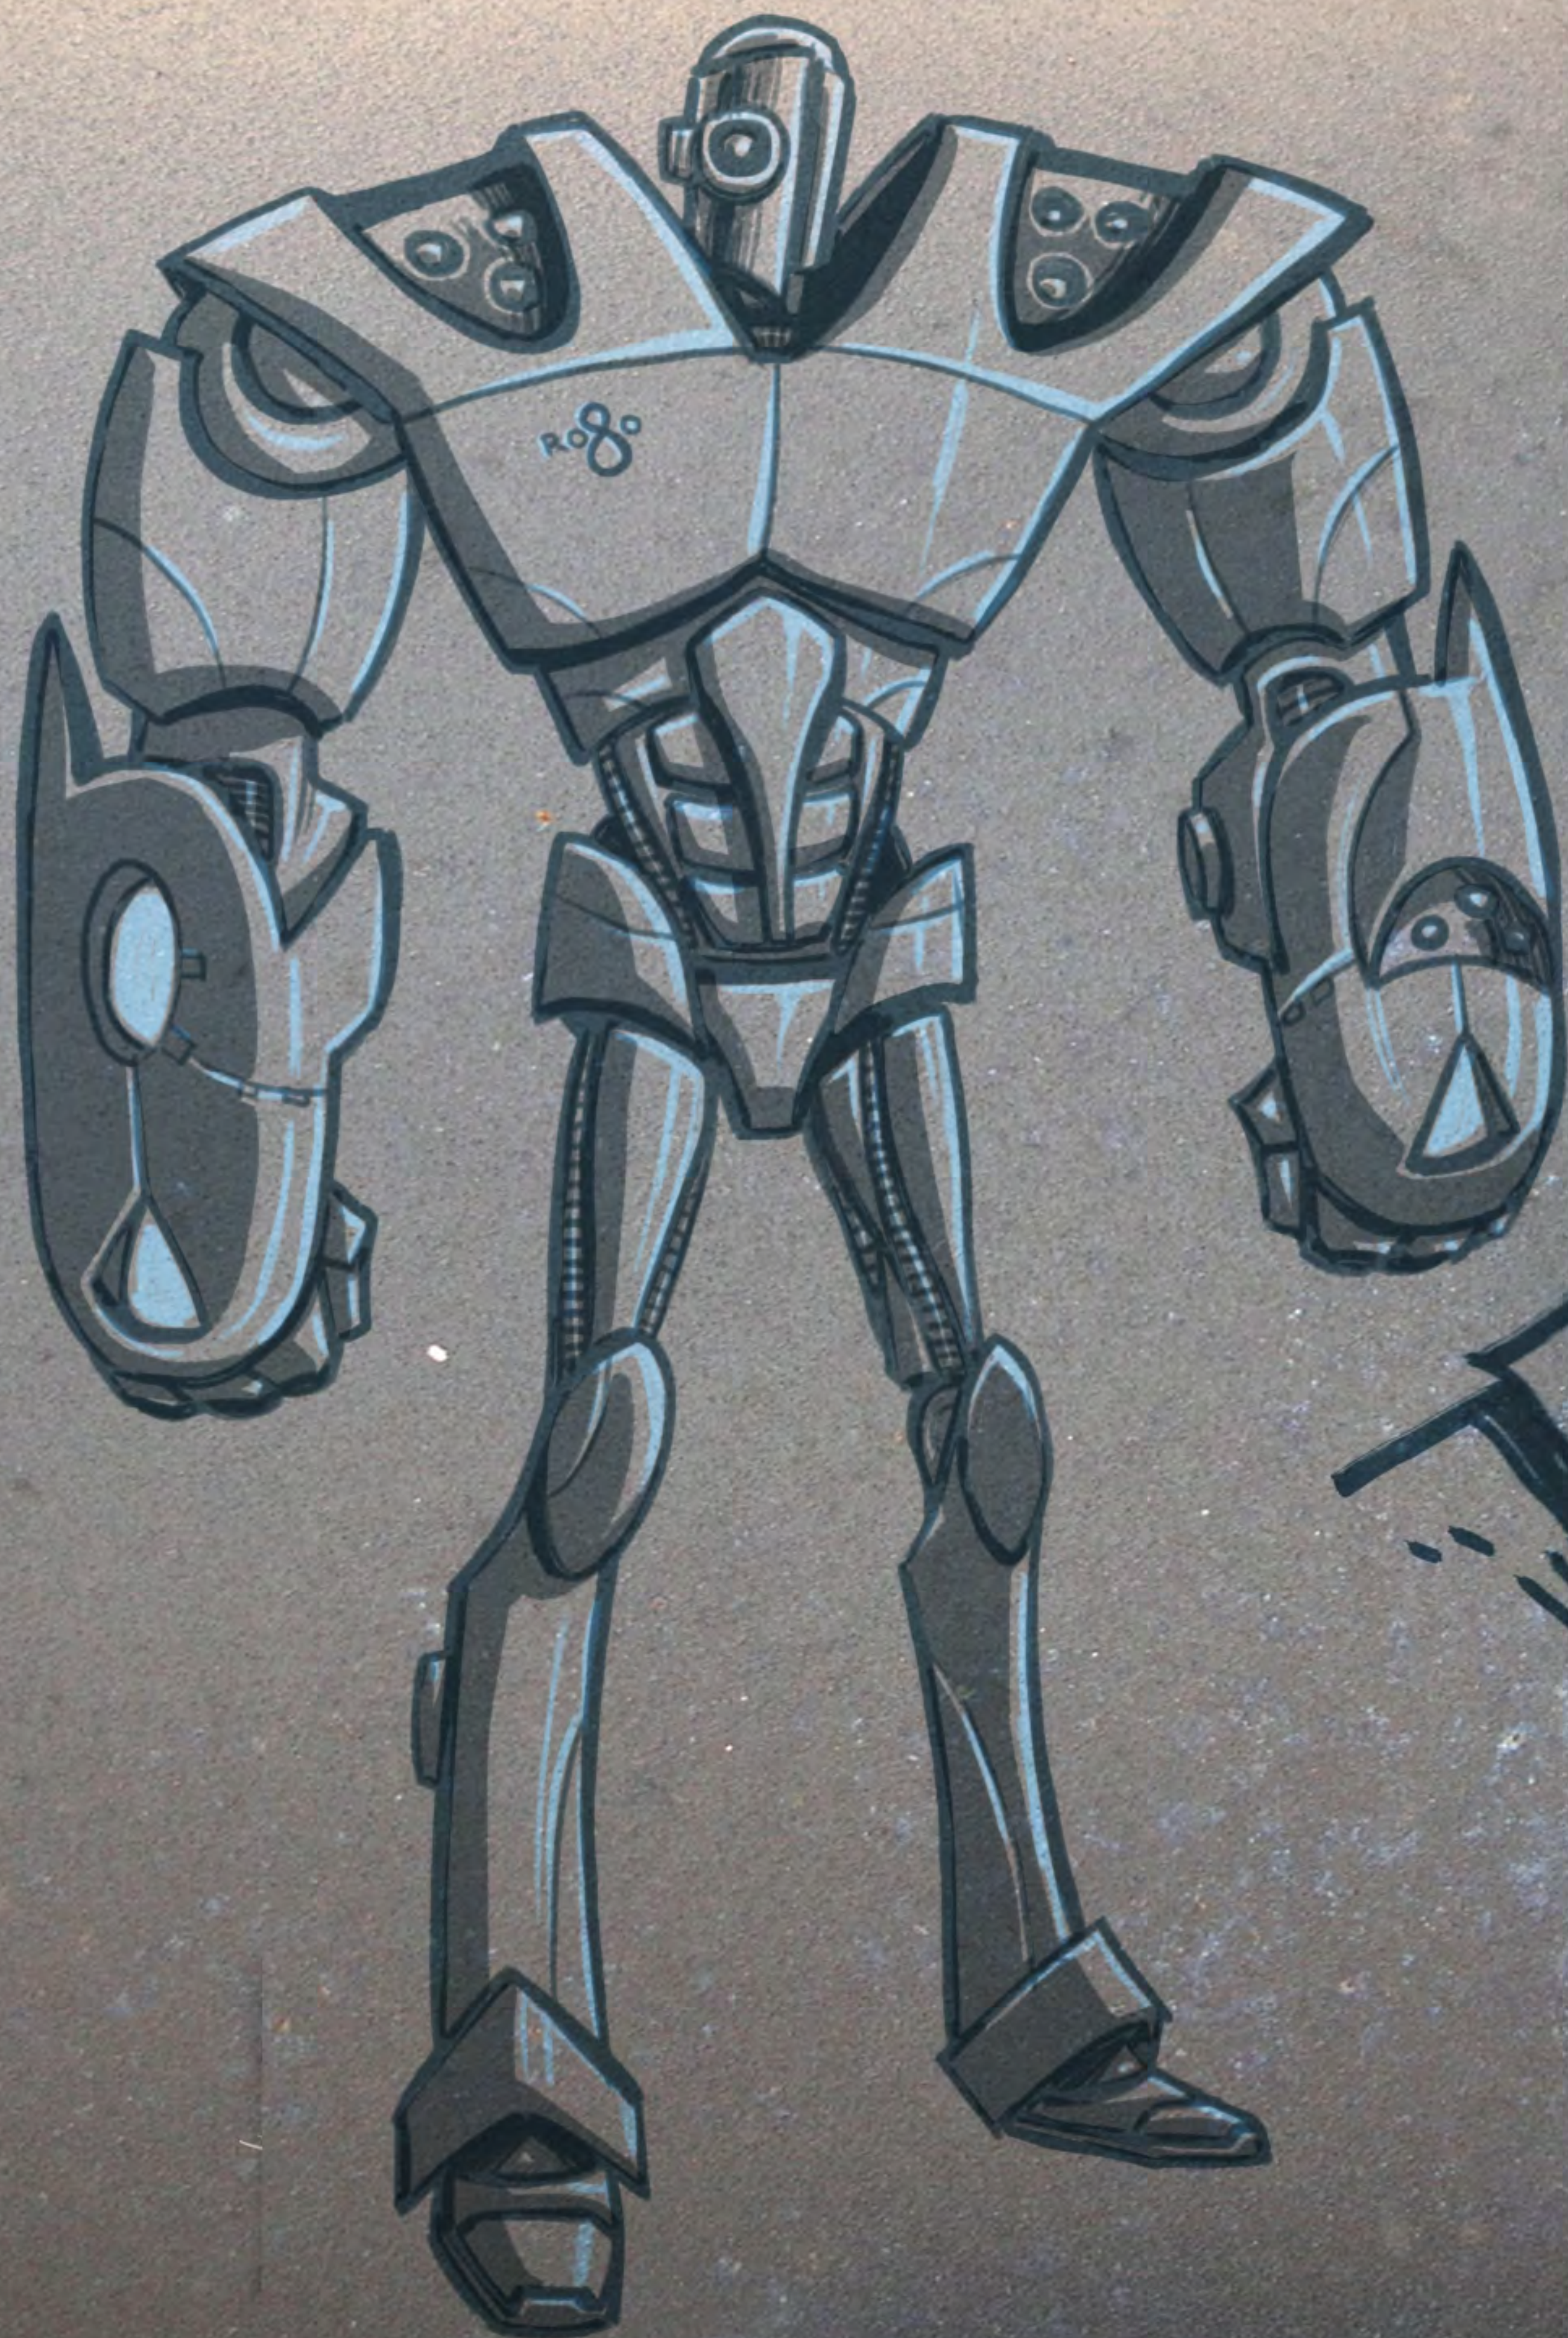

RO8OCORP

Ro8o's are designed and built for every imaginable purpose. While functional and specific; they are also very much a product of their parent company and are diligently branded as such...
